

I have been using XM Radio for about 18 months now. I listen to it for weather, news and music. Any attempt to narrow the scope of its ability to provide me with services smacks of big government selling out to big lobbying interest. The world is evolving constantly and protectionism is one way but not the way to meet innovation and progress.

Limiting coverage would be a form of censorship in the same neighborhood as telling CNN they could not cover small local issues